Are you addicted to hiking, but don't know anyone to tackle the climb with you? HikingAddiction has got you covered.

HikingAddiction is a volunteer run Kelowna organization aimed to help people explore the gems of the Okanagan.

HikingAddiction was born from a need for an outdoor activity group when founder Josh Hoggan first moved to Kelowna back in 2011. Over the past six years, Hoggan has brought on over 4,000 members, with anywhere between 10 to 60 individuals participating per hike.

"Our group is maintained by a small number of regular volunteers, but is very active outside of official events, as all members are welcome to host hikes and contribute in any way," said Hoggan.
